About me

What's in a name.

Hello, I am a twenty-four year old male with a passion for code based in The Netherlands. My interests are with both software and hardware, especially the combination of them.

My skills are obtained mostly in practice by projects, to seek out new problems and new solutions, to boldly code what no man has coded before.

Education

By any other name.

Target

Involve me and I learn.

Programming is not simply a set of rules, it is a philosophy... and a very correct one. When starting to learn how to code, we have to understand that sooner or later, we should not and cannot ever stop learning. It is the essence of being a programmer.

Experience

The adventure just begun.
